Siena Carnevale is an associate in the firm's Insurance & Healthcare Regulatory and Financial Institutions practices in Florham Park. An alumnus of Bressler's summer program, she earned her J.D. from Rutgers Law School. Siena has interned at large medical health providers.

Siena focuses on assisting insurance clients with sophisticated matters ranging from filings with state insurance regulators to developing long-term remedies to complex concerns. She works on insurance and healthcare regulatory matters, providing advanced research and analysis on regulatory and compliance issues.

While in law school, Siena was Co-Editor in Chief for the Women's Rights Law Reporter and was active in the Academic Support Program and the Women's Law Forum. In 2022, Siena received the National Association of Women Lawyers award for Greatest Commitment to Women's Issues. She received a B.A. in both Biological Sciences and Women & Gender Studies, with departmental honors, from Rutgers University - School of Arts and Sciences, New Brunswick, in 2019.
